

Research Study for Stimulant Dependent Individuals

We are conducting a research study on a behavioral treatment program at UCLA

Individuals who have problems with stimulant abuse are eligible to participate. Participants will receive three months of a no-cost behavioral intervention, and may also receive mindfulness based "talk" therapy. Compensation will be provided for completion of study assessments. Also included will be assessments of substance use.

Please call (310) 267-5232 or email
Anne Bellows at ABellows@mednet.ucla.edu for information.

Suzette Glasner-Edwards, PH.D
Principal Investigator

This research is conducted by the UCLA Integrated Substance Abuse Programs and is funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

UCLA IRB #G10-02-085-01D
Expiration Date: March 8, 2011

